

AACR-HBCU FACULTY AWARD IN CANCER RESEARCH

American Association for Cancer Research (AACR)
Special Conference on

Oncogenomics: Dissecting Cancer through Genomics Research

January 25-27, 2001
Westin La Paloma
Tucson, AZ

(Supported by a generous grant from the Comprehensive Minority Biomedical Program of the National Cancer Institute)

The American Association for Cancer Research (AACR) is extremely pleased to announce the availability of Awards in Cancer Research for full-time faculty members of Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) to participate in this Conference. Supported by a generous grant provided by the Comprehensive Minority Biomedical Program of the National Cancer Institute, AACR-HBCU Faculty Scholar Awards in Cancer Research are available to scientists at the level of Assistant Professor or above at an HBCU who are engaged in meritorious basic, clinical, or translational cancer research.

The purpose of this Award program is to increase the scientific knowledge base of faculty members at Historically Black Colleges and Universities, and to encourage them and their students to pursue careers in cancer research. Awardees will receive financial support (up to $1,600) for their participation in this Conference.

Eligible candidates must have completed postdoctoral studies or clinical fellowships and hold full-time faculty status at an institution designated as a Historically Black College or University. All candidates must have acquired doctoral degrees (e.g., M.D., Ph.D., D.V.M., D.Sc., etc.) in fields relevant to cancer research. Only citizens of the United States and Canada or scientists who are permanent residents in those countries may receive one of these awards. Candidates need not be members of the AACR to apply.

A copy of the candidate's curriculum vitae, including bibliography (list of publications), a statement from the candidate describing the benefit he/she expects to derive from attending the conference, and at least one letter of reference must accompany this application. The letter(s) of reference from the Departmental Chairperson, Dean, or other supervisory official, should comment on the scientific merit and independence of the applicant's research; the applicant's current activity in the area, including publications; the likelihood of the applicant's future research achievement; and the applicant's commitment to advancing the research careers of his or her students. Further information regarding the award program can be obtained by contacting Ms. Robin E. Felder, Manager, AACR-HBCU Faculty Scholar Award Program, at the AACR Office.

Application Deadline – November 25, 2000
